Part 7 – Limitations of NSW nomination

7. Limitations of NSW nomination

NSW nominates applicants to apply for a skilled visa if they meet NSW eligibility requirements in an occupation that is on the relevant NSW 491 Regional Skilled Occupation List. The occupations eligible for NSW nomination will change from time to time depending on economic need.

All applications are assessed against the criteria on the basis of the information and evidence submitted. Applicants who demonstrate that they meet criteria for nomination and who submit a fully documented application, may be nominated by NSW to apply for the Skilled Work Regional (Provisional) visa (subclass 491). NSW nomination is not guaranteed.

Obtaining NSW nomination is only the first step for prospective migrants to obtain this visa. Applicants applying for NSW nomination should also be aware that:

- NSW nomination is valid for one nomination and against one Expression of Interest (EOI) only
- NSW nomination is valid for 60 days only and a nomination does not imply that NSW will approve any subsequent applications for state nomination
- The Commonwealth Department of Home Affairs has sole responsibility for the granting of visas to enter or stay in Australia and NSW nomination does not mean that a visa application will be approved by the Commonwealth Department of Home Affairs
- NSW nomination does not constitute the granting of a visa to enter or stay in Australia.
